```
File Edit Format Run Options Window Help import matplotlib.pyplot as plt import numpy as np
x = np.random.randn(50)
y = np.random.randn(50)
plt.scatter(x, y, s=70, facecolors='none', edgecolors='g')
plt.xlabel("X")
plt.ylabel("Y")
                                                   N Figure 1
                                                                                                                         X
plt.show()
                                                                                                       0
                                                          2 - 00
                                                          1 -
                                                              0
                                                                                                                     0
                                                                                        0
                                                                      00
                                                          0
                                                                             0
                                                                       0
                                                                                                                       0
                                                        -1
                                                                                     0
```

-2

-2

**☆ ♦ ♦ **♦ ♦ ♦ ♦

0

Χ

-1

0

Ó

i